

Date City × Chembe Village International Symposium 2025

Learning from Local Innovator Actions

◆ Contents

The core keyword of this symposium is "Networking". We will illuminate the process by which diverse sectors and human networks are emerging from and being created by agriculture. We welcome innovators engaging in unique, agriculture-centered activities in Date City and Malawi. Through three main sessions, we will introduce the process where new networks start in agriculture, transform, and ultimately change the region.

Session 1 will feature individuals who develop two distinct, cutting-edge agricultural approaches—natural farming and mechanized farming—to illuminate the appeal of their practices and the new human networks they create. Session 2 will demonstrate the diversity of sales channels and collaborative networks emerging from various forms of agriculture, showing how new initiatives rooted in regional challenges are born. Session 3 will focus on those who have played a crucial role in forging new connections, inviting them to reflect on their experiences and share insights on deepening and expanding human networks.

In the Roundtable Discussion on the second afternoon, we will collectively reflect on the sessions and think together on the importance of agricultural diversity and the human networks it creates. We hope that this entire symposium will serve as a catalyst for building a sustainable future of well-being Date City.
